Single-Member Districts

Under single member election systems, an area is divided into a number of geographically defined voting districts, each represented by a single elected official. Voters can vote only for their district's representative, with the highest vote-getter winning election, even if he or she has received less than half of the vote.

Several Smith County government entities elect through an at-large system, whereby the electorate of the entire locality or district votes for all members of a multi-member body.
